FIND BOMB ON RAILS
Attempt Is Made to Wreck Broadway
Limited Near Altoona.

ALTOONA, July 16.—Pennsylvania railroad detectives today were searching the contents of a box for a clue that would lead to the identity of the parties who last night attempted to wreck the Broadway limited, the 19 hour train between New York and Chicago.

As a result of the report received yesterday, Robert Westbrook, a brakeman, found a lead pipe filled with 10 pounds of dynamite fastened to a rail on the track over which the last train was scheduled to pass in a few minutes.
Westbrook took the bomb to the nearest tower and turned it over to the operator who notified division police headquarters here.

DIDN'T USE GUN.
Coroner Decides Crank Had Died
by Jumping From Bank.

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y., July 16.—After hearing the testimony of several witnesses, Coroner William H. Miller announced today he would render a verge in the case of Burleigh

Munster, alias Frank Holt, who shot L. A. Morsch, a local banker, in the capital at Washington and inflicted a fatal wound on the victim.

A belief that Munster might have shot himself, based upon a statement of Jeremiah O'Ryan, his keeper, was responsible for the extended inquiry conducted by the coroner.

HARRY K. THAW IS GIVEN HIS FREEDOM UNDER $35,000 BAIL

Justice Hendricks, Sustaining Jury, Plays the Allenists in Case.

CROWD CHEERS THE PRISONER

Immediately After State Files Notice
of an Appeal Thaw Goes to Judge's Chambers to Adjust Bonds; Trip to Pittsburg Will Follow His Release.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 16.—Harry K.
Thaw, adjudged sane last Wednesday by a jury, was given his freedom today by Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendricks, who announced that he had accepted the jury's verdict. The state immediately served notice of appeal and Justice Hendricks then fixed bail at $35,000 to insure Thaw's presence at future proceedings. A surety company was ready to furnish bail. Thaw was taken from the court house to the judge's chambers so that details might be arranged.

A crowd of several hundred people lined the sidewalks and overflowed
into the streets around the court house and cheered Thaw and applauded wildly when he appeared on the court house steps.

In announcing his decision, Justice
Hendricks took occasion to comment unfavorably on the action of the attorneys who had assisted the state in preparing the case and then and then appeared as expert witnesses in court.

"I have reached a decision in this case," Justice Hendricks said, "and it is based on my own mind fortified by the action of the jury."
Thaw, sitting comfortably in his chair, his count on each side, showed his pleasure and anticipated the court's decision with a broad smile.

In going to pass a verdict about the alleged insanity of Thaw, Justice Hendricks said, "We have been told by one attorney that it is impossible to determine the sanity or insanity of a person without taking the word of a doctor. This court and jury cannot depend upon the word of an alienist who for years has devoted himself to a case of this kind and assisted in its preparation."
"That a doctor can help prepare a case and then go on the stand as an expert witness is wrong. I hope the legislature of the state will find some means to correct this. Some method should be adopted. Gentlemen, I have adopted the verdict of the jury.
I declare now that it is the decision of the court that Harry K. Thaw is sane."

The nine year struggle of Harry K.
Thaw, who shot and killed Stanford
White, is said to have cost his family more than $1,000,000. John R. Stanchfield's fee in the latest action is reported as $100,000. More than forty lawyers, many of them leaders in their respective states, have been retained for Thaw. Numerous affidavits have been sworn by both sides. In the nine years since Stanford White was killed, Thaw has engaged in ten distinct legal actions, each complex and extending many minor suits. To keep Thaw in Matthewman, New York state is said to have expended more than $300,000.
"The state knows what lawyers cost,"

after the bail arrangements were completed he was going to get his bag and then go down to the Pennsylvania station in New Jersey, where he would take a train for Pittsburg. The sheriff will accompany Thaw until he is on New Jersey soil, out of New York state.

The trip down town was made shortly after 4 o'clock when lower Broadway was thronged. Thaw appeared to be much pleased over the demonstration.

Thaw got his traveling bag at the lawyer's office and then proceeded to the Jersey city car of the Camden and Atlantic City ferry. There he was formally released from the custody of the sheriff. After lunch Thaw said he would remain in Philadelphia in company with his secretary, Frank Philadelphia, he is to go by rail to Pittsburg.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 16.—Attorney General Woodbury will reserve his decision as to whether he will appeal from the Thaw verdict until he has examined the court record in the proceedings before Justice Hendricks.
This information was made public today in a statement from the attorney general's office explaining that the formal notice of appeal was taken to prevent Thaw leaving the jurisdiction of the court.

Business Men Want to Close Town Up
Tight for the Week to Olympic August 5.

Preliminary plans for advertising
the merchants' and manufacturers' picnic to be held at Olympia Park on August 5 were made at a meeting of the advertising committee in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Steps were taken to circulate the closing agreement among the merchants. It is expected that the town will be closed tight on picnic day. Not only will the merchants be asked to close,
but everybody else is to be approached.
"We'll get everybody but the banks and bars," was the confident prediction of an enthusiastic worker.

After the closing agreement has been generally signed—and no trouble is anticipated in getting the signatures—a delegation will visit the manufacturers and ask them to request that they give their employes
a holiday on that date.

Ed. Baer and Charles D. Bailey were assigned the task of getting signatures on picnic day. After they have completed their canvass the picnic will be turned over to W. C. Wassel and E. E. Henderson of the West Side, H. L. Silcox and O. S. Gletty will canvass the South Side, A. E. Quartz and E. W. Horner the Main street section, and C. A. Crowley and Alex. Hager the North End.

The park management has agreed to furnish window cards, posters and a banner to be strung across Brimstone Corner, providing permission of the city is obtained. West Penn street will carry an announcement of the picnic and posters will be distributed in the surrounding towns.
Later in the month a newspaper advertising campaign will be started.

Efforts are being made to have the Connellsville Military Band accompany the picnickers. In any event, the band will give a concert the evening of August 4 to boost the proposition.

KING FAMILY REUNION
Annual Gathering of Old Family Will be Held at Obolpiole.

Extensive arrangements are being made for the annual reunion of the King family, to be held Saturday,
August 21, at Bantler Park, Obolpiole.
Although the meeting is known as the King reunion, everybody is invited.

Among the first immigrants from the eastern counties of Pennsylvania to settle west of the Allegheny mountains were progenitors of the many members of the King family residing in Somerset county, Pennsylvania and Westmoreland county. The early settlers of Kings in Somerset county are all descendants of Philip King, who immigrated from Belgium to America about 1680.

Philip King, who was born in Belgium, came to Somerset county, where he reared a family of five sons and three daughters. Philip King died in Philadelphia county. One of his sons also died in Philadelphia county, and the others after having emigrated to York county, came to Somerset county, about the period of the War of Independence, settling in Milford and Tunkhannock townships. After a period of nearly a century and a half,
with many having gone in early days to other states, there are enough Kings left in Fayette, Westmoreland and Somerset counties to fill the woods on the occasion of their annual reunion.

A reunion association was organized in 1909 by the descendants of Samuel King, who was the grandson of Philip King, the first.

ITALIANS CELEBRATE
They Observe Annual Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

The annual feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel is being celebrated today by the Italians of this city and vicinity. Owing to the fact that the Italians are building a new church on the site of the old one, the celebration was not on an elaborate scale as heretofore. There was no parade, and at 10 o'clock a large gathering assembled in the basement of the Immaculate Conception Church, where Father high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father DeVito.

The Italian Royal Band gave a concert at 8:45 P. M. in charge of Conductor Fletcher and Motorman Huey, ran over the foreigner while approaching Dickerson Run. The motorman saw the man sitting on the car tracks when about two pole lengths away. The brakes were applied quickly, but the car skidded on, striking the man and badly maiming him.
The victim was picked up and the car immediately returned to Conneltsville. The man had been instantly killed by the car. When sitting on the car tracks he had taken off his shoes. The body was removed to J.
E. Sims' undertaking establishment.
John Eaton, a car inspector of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad at Dickerson Run, was injured last night when he was squeezed between two cars, while at his work there. The injured man was brought to this place on a Western Maryland train and taken to the Cottage State Hospital.

SEEK INTOXICATED AUTOIST WHO HAD A JOY RIDE IN TOWN

He is Accused of Striking George Enos, Hired as His Driver.

ESCAPES AFTER A LONG CHASE

Car-cablers Roland and Enos Go as Far as Greensburg Where They Learn the Party Posed $25 Forfeit;
Chase Resumed Today in Pittsburg.

Constable William Roland and George Enos, a local blacksmith, are in Pittsburg today seeking the man who, with a party of others, was driving an automobile around the West Side yesterday in a reckless manner. He is charged with assault and battery by Enos, whom he attacked near Swanton.

The man was chased by automobile
through Seaside, Mount Pleasant and Greensburg by Constable Roland and Enos, but at the latter place the race was given up by the pursuers.
At Greensburg the party was arrested by the police, but gave a $25 forfeit and were permitted to go on,
before the men from Conneltsville got there. After returning from Greenburg, Constable Roland and Enos went to Pittsburg, where the latter's assistant lives.

In the automobile with the man
were two women. All were drunk.
The car, a Cadillac Eight, was run up and down Main street on the West Side. At one time it backed up from a street car coming from the East Side, stopping the trolley.
The police stopped the man and told him he must either leave the automobile alone or get a man to run it for him. George Enos was engaged and started towards Greensburg.
Near Swanton town the owner of the car, who was sitting in the rear seat, commenced arguing with Enos and suddenly reached over and grabbed the driver by the neck. Enos pulled his antagonist from the car and freed himself from this act. Getting the number of the car he returned to Connellsville on foot.

Enos and Constable Roland obtained another car but were unable to catch up with the party.
The car's license number is credited to R. D. Day of Pittsburg.

PLAN BIG LAWN FETE
Brethren Still July $100 of Amount Needed for Convention Trip.

The New Haven Hose Company held a meeting last evening in the hose house on the West Side to determine how much money had been cleared by the carnival after all bills had been paid. The exact amount could not be determined, however, as a few bills have not yet been sent in.
The total is expected to be about $175. This is much lower than was expected and the brethren are still in need of $400 to defray their expenses to the Sharnburg convention.
It was suggested that a lawn fete be held in order to raise at least part of the money.

If arrangements can be made with the churches and other societies in the city to help this action will be taken. Aid from the women is needed as the brethren cannot handle the booths.

It is proposed to hold the fete the first week in August. The money has given but one free concert this season it will be asked to occupy the band stand these nights.

The new uniforms of the company are expected to arrive July 28 and the brethren do not want to hold the fete until after these suits arrive, as it will be their only opportunity to wear them before going to the convention.

The brethren intend to camp out at Sharnburg and the cost of the tents alone will be $200.

BALLOT DISPUTE TUESDAY
Commissioners, Directed to Answer
Mandamus Action on That Day.

The writ of alternative mandamus issued upon the county commissioners by Justice E. H. Heppert requiring them to how come why they should not issue a non-partisan nomination petition to James E. Hanly, who wants to run for mayor of Uniontown, has been made returnable on Tuesday of next week. On that day the commissioners are expected to file their answer with the court.
County Solicitor Thomas H. Hanson will face a peculiar situation.
Having suggested that the non-partisan petitions be issued he must now endeavor to convince the court that the commissioners were within the law in failing to follow his advice.

men who gave their names as Harold White, Howard Firestone and Herman Burkhardt, were arrested today and confessed to entering and robbing the store of Mrs. Jacobs at Connellsville No. 3 on July 7.
They were put through a sweating test by County Detectives Smith and sulted in the recovery of some clothing and other goods which were found

road tracks at Sunning.

TWO MEN IN A FORD GO OVER ROAD BRIDGE

Scottdale Minister and Companion Wore Learning Operation of Car.

JUMPS SEVERAL FEET INTO WATER

Planning for Trick Outing—Tennis Players Coming Tomorrow—Woman Taken to Hospital Following Accident—Other Notes of Mill Town.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE, July 16.—Rev. J. A. Reider and Mr. Mumaw had an exciting and dangerous adventure while the former was learning to run a Ford car yesterday afternoon. They were traveling along at no greater speed than a horse and buggy, when the automobile was going out on the concrete bridge at the foot of the Fleming hill, a mile west of town, when the automobile shot over the bridge and down into the run, about 10 feet below. The machine cut down a wooden railing built at this place, and buried itself in the water. One of the men was caught under a side of the machine, but was extricated and beyond some minor bruises neither was injured. A rope was obtained from a nearby farm house, and being fastened to one of J. C. Christner's elvy wagons, the automobile was brought back onto the road. The radius rod was bent, the radiator dinged and the windshield broken. J. A. Reider went out from the garage and soon had the machine in shape to run. It is believed that the driver, confined on his running and the building which he expected much quicker than he expected.

TO FRICK MINE.
Scottdale will send a large delegation to the ninth annual picnic of the Frick Veterans' Association, which will be held at Oakford Park, Thursday, July 22. There will be dancing, games and baseball. The committee is made up of J. A. Reider, Robert Ramsey, V. W. Yabner, H. W. Miller, J. M. Atchison, P. J. Torrey and C. B. Frank.

Special street cars will be run for the picnic, and tickets will be sold here the day before. Two extra cars leave here at 7:55, running extra to Greensburg via Hunker, arriving at Greensburg at 9 A. M., and returning at 10:15. The special round trip fare from Scottdale and all points north to Conneltsville is: Adults 50 cents, children 25 cents. Tickets will be good only on Saturdays.

TENNIS ON SATURDAY.
The Duponts V. M. C. A. will send their strong team of four men here on Saturday to meet a quartette of Scottdale tennis players at Conneltsville in Louie's yard at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Scottdale will be represented by W. S. Wiley, P. M. Newcomer, John Brown and Chas. E. Hall. This is the first series of matches that have been arranged for.

TO HOSPITAL.
Mrs. Fred D. Askey was taken to the Mount Pleasant hospital last evening for treatment. While visiting at Mr. Askey's home at Oseola Mills recently, Mrs. Askey, while coming down stairs, caught her heel on the step and was thrown forward, the head striking and the arm striking her along the spine. The injury did not seem much at the time, but developed seriously after she got home.

PERSONALS.
Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Love and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hoenig, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hornsby of town, and Mrs. A. J. Hoenig of Conneltsville, have returned from a motor trip to Detroit, Niagara and other lake points.
Charles H. Black is spending a few days in Pittsburgh. He is the son of William H. Black, who is going about on crutches, a condition caused by a heavy piece of iron smashing one of his legs while he was at work in the shipping department of the mill.
Margaret Smith is a Scottdale teacher selected to teach at No. 4 Trauger, in Mount Pleasant township.

RELIGIOUS PEOPLE.
The Woman's Suffrage Liberty Bell was greeted in Scottdale by a large crowd at the corner of Pittsburg and Spring streets on Tuesday afternoon, when the bell was brought from Conneltsville. A half dozen automobiles from Mount Pleasant waited on Pittsburg street and when the meeting was over escorted the bell to Mount Pleasant.

Several automobiles from Scottdale went to Keister's mill, the county line, and met the bell and it accompanied party. Among the cars was one driven by H. H. Boyd, containing Mrs. H. W. Miller, H. S. Piper, H. L. Allen, and another with Mrs. Albert Keister, Miss Elsie Shorpe driving a car with a party, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Hess and J. L. Murphy's big furniture truck with members of the W. C. T. U. and other adherents of the cause.

Dr. H. D. Allen, pastor of the Baptist Church, was chairman of the meeting, at which there was a large turnout. Miss Louisa Hall, the first speaker, proved to be one of the best speakers ever heard here, and made a strong impression. She was followed in another excellent speech by Miss Stewart, dean of the Montana University. A large offering was received in Scottdale.

HOW TO GAIN WEIGHT A POUND A DAY

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "meat" should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for awhile and note results. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—some tablets with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction, and best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe, fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood, preparing it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can carry to every part of the body. Now Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat produce the contents of the very same cells you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. Goodbye to the "meat" and "fat" and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Adv.

COAL OUTPUT SHRINKS

Industrial Depression of 1914 Hit Maryland's Mines Hard.
Maryland's mines during 1914 produced 1,133,517 short tons of coal, with a spot value of $5,234,796. According to figures of the United States Geological Survey collected in co-operation with the Maryland State Geological Survey, this was less than in 1913 by 448,292 short tons, or 33.5 per cent quantity and $692,250, or 11.7 per cent in value. The annual production of coal in Maryland has been fairly constant for the last 19 years, the smallest production in that period having been in 1909, when it amounted to 1,423,241 tons, and the largest production in 1907, when it was 5,532,625 tons. It is not to be expected that the production will show any marked increase in the future, as the great bed, the "Maryland Big Vein," from which the greater part of the output has been obtained, is approaching exhaustion, and although there is still a good supply remaining in the thinner and deeper beds it is not considered probable that the future annual production from them will exceed the records of the past. If indeed it matches the past figures, although more than 90 per cent of Maryland's coal production is mined by hand, the record of individual output by the miners is high. In 1914 5,492 men were employed in the coal mines of the State and they worked an average of 241 days, with an average production per man of 768 tons for the year, or 3.2 tons for each working day. This is an exceptionally good record, especially when it is considered that 3,861,005 tons, or 93.1 per cent of the total, was mined by hand. The average output per man in 1911 was only 119,065 tons, or 2.45 per cent of the total. The quantity of coal shot off the solid was 124,966 tons.

The Bureau of Mines reported 18 fatal accidents in 1914 in the coal mines of Maryland, as against 13 in 1913. In addition, every year about 100 men have died from an attack of cholera morbus before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. Every family should be prepared for such an emergency. Mrs. E. M. Snyder, Hockinsville, N. Y., says: "About four years ago my husband had an attack of cholera morbus. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it relieved the pain immediately, and two or three doses of it effected a cure." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

NERVOUS WOMEN

Are troubled with the "blues," anxiety, depression, and wariness of mind and distress are sent by the nerves like flying messengers throughout body and limbs. Such feelings may or may not be accompanied by headache or heartache or nervousness. The local doctors and inflammation, if there be any, should be treated with Dr. Pierce's Little Blue Pills. Then the nervous system and the entire womanly mechanism feel the tonic effect of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Take this in tablet or liquid form and be a well woman.

The Solsson "THE ROMANCE OF BLAINE" The second episode of the popular serial, "The Romance of Blaine," is the principal feature at the Solsson Theatre today. Pearl White, Lonnie Maybridge, Brighton Hale and the mysterious "Mr. X" are in the cast of this production. The fifth series of "Under the Crescent" pictures, "In the Name of the King," in two reels, is also an attraction of merit and of intense interest. The Rex drama, "Simple Polly," is a pathetic story, told in a very pretty way. The New comedy, "When Hubby Grew Jealous," is a rollicking farce with oodles of fun. Tomorrow William A. Brady presents Holbrook Blinn and Alice Brady in the famous five reel drama, "The Boss." It is a corking good play.	The Globe The girl's people don't like Michael's for he doesn't act kindly toward him; other enemies, civil and ecclesiastical, are arrayed against him, and then it becomes the contest of a boss against apparently overwhelming odds. In the end "The Boss" defeats his enemies and wins his wife. Holbrook Blinn, admittedly the most powerful actor who ever appeared before the motion picture camera, finds in the part of Michael Reagan one thoroughly well suited to his robustness style. Alice Brady is the young wife; and she acquits herself with perfect art and skill in a trying and sympathetic role.	The Colonial "THE CAPTIVE" The dramatization of "The Captive," the famous drama in which Blanche Sweet appears for the second time as a star under the Lasky management is a war drama of most extraordinary interest. The plot may be said to develop mainly through the love of a young Turkish noble for a Montenegrin peasant woman, the atmosphere of conflict is sustained throughout. Indeed, the Turkish noble and the peasant girl are brought together only owing to the fact that the noble is a prisoner of war, and is assigned to the girl to do the necessary work on her little farm. At the opening of the drama a pitched battle between the Turkish troops and the Montenegrin peasants is shown most graphically. And the climax of the entire plot is reached when a marauding column of Turkish troops captures the girl's village. STEEL CORPORATION UNFILLED TONNAGES SURPRISE TO MARKET

Increase is 100,000 Tons
Beyond the Most Hopeful Estimate.

BIG CONCERN IS ON THE JOB

Has Promptly Solved Problems Arising as a Result of the European War; Reaction of Zinc Plant is an Example of Foresight of the Concern

The United States Steel Corporation, in its monthly statement issued Saturday, reports unfilled orders on its books as of June 30 last, of 1,678,196 tons. This compares with 1,578,196 tons on May 31 last, an increase of 100,000 tons, and with 1,528,196 tons on June 30, 1914.

The increase of 100,000 tons in the unfilled tonnages of the United States Steel Corporation, exceeding an increase by more than 100,000 tons the most optimistic estimates which had generally been given, was taken as one of the best evidences of the manner in which the company has even as yet failed to grasp the tremendous boom for the steel industry which the war has brought.

Added to the constantly increasing size of the orders from abroad, and from home manufacturers who are deluged with war orders, further prosperity to the United States Steel Corporation is assured by the systematized manner in which the corporation is meeting the new conditions created by the war so as to effect widespread economies in costs of operation, while at the same time in no way hampering the corporation's production.

As one of the greatest consumers of zinc in the country, the corporation quickly met the situation created by the sky-rocketing of zinc prices by entering into zinc business itself. In similar manner, the United States Steel Corporation is now giving attention to the problem of zinc transportation, and under the methods of handling that have been adopted, practically all worked out, the corporation has finally placed itself in the position in which it is now in, that all these products for which it is itself responsible for delivery are being forwarded without the difficulties which have attended the transportation problem in recent months.

This latter work has been chiefly in the hands of the United States Steel Products Company. The latter subsidiary of the Steel Corporation is handling most of the orders placed from abroad, and is now shipping quantities which even the most optimistic of the steel directors had little dreamed of a few months ago as possible.

MISSOURI COAL

Output for 1914 Falls Somewhat Behind Year Production

The coal mined in Missouri in 1914 amounted to 2,725,250 short tons, valued at the mines at $6,992,325. Compared with 1913, when the production of Missouri was 2,718,122 short tons, valued at $7,045,295, the output for 1914, according to the United States Geological Survey, this shows a decrease of 282,145 tons in quantity and of $53,070 in value. The decreased production in 1914 is due primarily to the uniformly mild weather throughout the winter and to the increased demand from railroads. The demand for steam coal by manufacturers was fairly well maintained during the year, the transportation facilities were ample and satisfactory, and there was little interruption of mining on account of labor troubles. There were occasional shutdowns but no prolonged period of idleness. The time lost because of strikes was less than 2 per cent of the time made.

For the 2,549 men employed, work in an average of 179 days, the average annual production per man was 122 tons, or 2.19 tons for each working day. About half of Missouri's coal production is "powder mined," 1,514,017 tons, or 55.5 per cent of the total having been shot off the rock in 1914, a slight improvement showing in the figures for 1914 as against 2,021,292 tons, or 47 per cent of the total, in 1912.

BAITMORE & OHIO PLANS

Additional Shipping Facilities Will Be Provided for Industrial Plants

Additional shipping facilities will be provided by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for industrial plants now located at Curtis Bay, Baltimore, or which might be located in the future by extending the present seawall branch considerably more than a mile. When completed, it will give direct track connections at numerous points along this particular portion of the company's line around the city.

Curtis Bay is at present backed up as a particularly attractive section for the location of large industries, and many have been erected there in recent years.

COKE MAKERS HAVE FAILED TO WIN DOMESTIC MARKET

Despite the Fact That Fuel is Superior to Anthracite, It Still Lacks Demand

While coke is used as a domestic fuel, it is only to a very limited extent. The object of an article in the current issue of Coal Age is to impress upon the manufacturers of coke the golden opportunity that awaits his product as a real competitor in the domestic anthracite market.

Coke has all the advantages of anthracite, and in addition several that the latter does not possess—greater cleanliness, uniformity of quality and, lastly, cheapness when price and results are considered.

Years ago coke as a domestic fuel was condemned on the score that it caused the greatest of evils, the dust, for the only coke known to commerce at that time was the hard, delivery 72-hour coke. This is the coke that has driven anthracite from its position of being the chief means of supplying heat, and which has tried as a domestic fuel but without success.

Times have changed and the fuel business also, and now with the introduction of the by-product coke oven we are getting a fairly satisfactory coke for domestic use, but even now the market for such coke has been merely touched. Much of the original prejudice against coke still persists and must be swept away before any real progress can be made.

Fortunately there is a way for those with an open mind.

At this time coke occupies the position of the poor man's fuel—the fuel for him who can spend but 5 or 10 cents at a time. Yet while it is the poor man's fuel, the poor nevertheless is getting more for his money and is at the same time enjoying a luxury somewhat akin to that of our colored brethren who for years were the chief consumers of baren, until their white brothers awakened and by improved methods of preparation and exploitation on the part of the big packing companies, boosted the price to 15 times what it was formerly.

Being entirely a manufactured product, the preparation of coke is in the hands of the maker and should not be the result of chance. In a way the use of coke for a domestic fuel was almost as much an accident as was the first use of anthracite. The first acquaintance the public had with it was through the fact that it was brought about by the gas companies about 1840. In making their gas they produced as a by-product a 1-hour coke and this was so cheaply to be had that it found a very low price in the market. Yet even this coke fully met all the requirements of an ideal domestic fuel.

So those in the Eastern States who have had an opportunity to compare the two fuels, coke and anthracite, in actual burning tests in ordinary domestic use, there is not the least doubt that the coke is every way as much, if not more, than anthracite.

For years the anthracite producers have been allowing the gas companies to take their market from them, not that the anthracite tonnage has not increased, for it has, but not in proportion to the growth of population. As the result of this lack of real activity on the part of the anthracite interest, the hard coal trade has been put on its back heels for four months of every year.

Being a manufactured substance its quality is for a uniformity is guaranteed within your control. It is also absolutely necessary to know what your fuel can do under all conditions. For instance, does a 1-hour coke stand up to the requirements of an ordinary heating stove? Is a different kind required for the cook stove? What size acts best in each? How about the results in steam-heating plants? With the same kind and size of coke as used in ordinary stoves do the steam, boiler, or vapor heating plants? It is not at all likely that it will, but it is your business to know. You should know exactly what your fuel will do and after all of these factors are determined you are prepared to go intelligently after your market.

That it pays to spend money to make money has been better demonstrated than the experience of the selfsame gas companies as proven by their earnings today. As much or more in proportion can be done for the coke industry if the producing interests really want a share of the domestic coal trade of the East, which amounts to about 70,000,000 tons yearly. It rests entirely with them and the proportion they get will be determined largely by the fact of how much they want the business.

YEAR SATISFACTORY

Coal Men of Kansas Not Discouraged by Slump in Output

The production of coal in Kansas in 1914 amounted to 8,824,241 short tons, according to a statement just made public by the United States Geological Survey, with a value at the mines of $11,181,657. This is a decrease of 5 per cent in quantity and 7 per cent in value from the output of 1913. In other respects, however, the year is reported to have been satisfactory to the coal men, no serious strikes or flooding of pits having interfered with coal mining in the state during the year.

Some improvement in the dangerous practice of shooting from the solid is shown for Kansas, the coal mined by this method in 1914 being 77.3 per cent of the total output as compared with 85.5 per cent in 1913. The coal reported as mined by hand was 1,277,227 tons. Not much progress was made in the mine in machine mining, the quantity of coal so produced in 1914 having been less than 40,000 tons. A small percentage of the total (21,225 tons) was washed, yielding 16,235 tons of cleaned coal and 5,990 tons of refuse.

The number of men employed in the coal mines of Kansas in 1914 was 12,112, and they worked an average of 127 days in 1914. The average production per man in 1914 was 559 tons, and 2.88 tons for each working day.

The Bureau of Mines reported 21 fatal accidents in Kansas in 1914, as compared with 28 in 1913.

HIGHWAY PATROL SYSTEM

Commissioner Cunningham Plans to Keep State Roads Repaired

HARRISBURG, July 16.—State Highway Commissioner Robert J. Cunningham announced today that on August 1 the patrol system of maintenance would be established on state highway routes. Caretakers will be employed and each man will be assigned to a designated section of highway for the maintenance and repair of which he will be held responsible. One hundred and ninety men will be placed on the patrol work at the start and the territory covered will extend through 46 counties. They will be paid at the rate of 15 to 20 cents an hour, depending upon the scale of wages for labor in their districts. This will mean an annual expenditure of $120,000 or a maintenance cost of $45 a mile per year for the state highways.

The patrol men will be directly under the county superintendent. They will be required to make a daily report of the number of hours they work and the reports will be collected by the county superintendents, who will make out payrolls for the men. As the county superintendents have been supplied with light roadsters, it will be possible for them to keep in close touch with the patrol men on the state highways and to ascertain whether or not the work is being done properly.

AMERICAN STEEL FOUNDRIES

Company Sharing in Large Foreign Equipment Orders

Part of these orders have been placed by American companies which have received the orders from the foreign governments, but it is understood that the American Steel Foundries has built up a large export department, in which it is doing business for the war, and within the last few weeks has negotiated large orders direct.

BIG COAL PRODUCER

Indiana Mines 16,000,000 Tons of Coal During 1914

In 1914 the mines of Indiana yielded 16,041,122 tons of coal having a value of $18,290,328, according to a statement by C. E. Leach just given out by the United States Geological Survey. This shows a slight decrease from the 1913 figures of 16,150,000 tons or 3 per cent in quantity, and $710,000 or 3.7 per cent in value. Out of 19 coal-producing counties in Indiana 19 showed an increase in 1914, all the increases being small except that in Vigo County which in 1914 had an output greater than in 1913 by more than 500,000 tons. On the other hand, the neighboring counties, Greene, Clay, Knox, and Parke counties, each showed a decrease of over 100,000 tons. The average price per ton for the State was $1.10 as compared with $1.11 for 1913.

The production of machine-mined coal in 1914 amounted to 9,350,683 short tons, or 58.3 per cent of the total as compared with 9,757,125 tons or 60.4 per cent in 1913. There has been ever no decrease in the proportion of the product shot off the solid, the figures being 5,155,229 tons in 1913 and 5,000,000 tons in 1914, approximately 30 per cent in both years. The quantity of hand-mined coal decreased from 11 per cent to 10.6 per cent in 1914, and the number of mine-machines in use decreased from 722 in 1913 to 751 in 1914.

The Bureau of Mines reported 44 fatal accidents in the mines of Indiana during 1914, a decrease of 22 from those reported in 1913. This brought the death rate per thousand from 2.97 in 1913 to 1.97 for 1914.

BUYS COAL PROPERTIES

Union Trust Takes Over Pittsburgh-Buffalo Mines

The Union Trust Company acquired the properties of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Company for $1,600,000 when they were offered for sale at auction in Pittsburgh yesterday. Only one bid was tendered.

The sale was subject to the lien of a first mortgage made in 1909 to secure a bond issue of $2,500,000, of which bonds to the par value of $1,750,000 were issued and upon which there has been an interest payment since August 2, 1912. The sale represents an outlay of nearly $2,500,000. The Union Trust Company holds the first mortgage.

The properties of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Company consisted of the Marquette mine, Hazen mine, Francis mine, Johnetta mine, Betha mine and the Higgens tract. The first named is the largest, containing approximately 5,000 acres of coal. The mine has modern equipment. Included in the holdings are 700 acres of surface land upon which are boiler and power houses and 250 acres of land which 225 are of brick construction.

The properties were first offered separately, but there being no takers they were offered in entirety. At the time of the sale they had $1,500,000 and it was accepted.

Officials of the trust company when asked as to future plans in connection with the properties said no immediate movement would be made until the return of H. C. McDermott, president of the Union Trust Company, who is on the Pacific coast.

THINGS ALL OUGHT TO KNOW

As Christian Bible Students—The Satirist's Proof of "Why God Permits Evil"

One of the questions which comes to nearly every thinking mind today is, "Why does God permit evil?" As we look about us in the world we observe that it is filled with sorrow and trouble, sickness and pain and every trial we could enumerate, and we cannot help wondering WHY GOD ALLOWS IT. We realize that He is almighty and that He could prevent it if He wished. We read in His Word that He is more willing to do for His children than are earthly parents for theirs, and we know how much that means; yet oftentimes it seems that those who try to do and live right have the most trouble. This question is made very clear in a book entitled, "The Divine Plan of the Ages." Every statement is backed by Scripture, and shows that while God does not sanction evil HE HAS HAD A PURPOSE IN ALLOWING SIN AND DEATH TO REIGN THESE SIX THOUSAND YEARS. This and many other subjects of deep interest to all of God's people are discussed fully and in language easy of comprehension.

In English, German, Swedish, Danish, Norwegian, Italian, French, Greek, Hungarian, Spanish, Polish, Hollandish, Finnish, (Syria) and Turkish-Armenian in preparation.

It was between half-past four and five that Miss Grerson, driving in the basket phaeton, made a stop in front of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank.

Since it was long past the closing hours, the curtains were drawn in the bank doors and street-facing windows. But there was a side entrance and she went straight to the door of the private room, entering without warning.

Her father was not alone. In the chair at the desk-end sat a man florid of face, hard-eyed and gross-bellied. His hat was on the back of his head, and clamped between his teeth under the bristling mustache he held one of Jasper Grerson's fat black cigars. The conference paused when the door opened, but when Marygrove crossed the room and perched herself on the deep seat of the farthest window, it went on in guarded tones at a silent signal from the banker to his visitor.

There was a trade journal lying in the window-seat, and Miss Grerson took it up to become idly immersed in a study of the advertising pictures. It was the latest issue of the "Farmers' and Merchants' Bank," and she listened to the low-toned talk it was only mechanically, one would say. Yet there was a quickening of the breath now and again, and a preening of the white teeth upon the ripe lower lip, as she turned the pages of the advertising supplement; there, though only detached sentences of the talk, drifted across to the window-seat.

"You're fixed to put the entire responsibility for the auction over on to the other side of the house?" was one of the overheard sentences; it was her father's query, and she also heard his answer. "We're going to put 'em in bad, don't you forget it. There'll be some broken heads, most likely, and if they're sure, somebody'll pay for 'em." A little further along it was her father who said: "You've got to quit this running to me. Keep to your own side of the fence. Murray's got his orders, and he'll pay the bills. If anything breaks loose, I won't know you. Get that!" "I'm on," said the red-faced man; and shortly afterward he took his leave.

When the door had closed behind the man who looked like a ward healer or a walking delegate, and who had been both, and many other and more questionable things, by turns, Jasper Grerson swung his huge chair to face the window.

"Well," he said, "how's Galbraith coming along?"

The snickering look in the daughter's eyes leaped up at the proposition lurking in the grin brutality; but they were dying down again when she saw the trade journal aside and said: "I didn't come here to tell you about Mr. Galbraith. I came to give you notice that it is time to quit. When I asked you to put Mr. Raymer under obligations to me, I said I'd tell you when it was time to stop."

The president of the Farmers' and Merchants' tilted his chair to the lounging angle and laughed; a slow gurgling laugh that spread from lip to eye and thence abroad through his great frame until he shook like a grotesque incarnation of the god of mirth. "I am to turn round and help him out of the hole, am I? Oh, no; I guess

"O'ye See That Felly Doubtful the Fence Corner?"

not," he denied. "It's business now, little girl, and the headlights are barred. I'll give you a check for that span of blackie you were looking at, and we'll call it square."

"Does that mean that you intend to go on until you have smashed him?" she asked, quietly ignoring the putative bribe.

"I'm going to put him out of business—him and that other fool friend of yours—if that's what you mean."

Again the sudden lightning glowed in Marygrove's eyes; again there was a struggle, short and sharp, between the leaping passions and the indomitable will. Yet she could speak softly.

"What is the reason? Why do you hate these two so desperately?" she asked.

Jasper Grerson fanned away the verify the boundary records on the county survey."

"I thought so," she affirmed. And then: "The records are all right, Mr. Broffin; but the lands which Mr. MacFarland will be shown will not be the lands which Mr. Galbraith is talking of buying. I want evidence of this—in black and white. Can you telegraph to someone in Duluth?"

Broffin permitted himself a small sigh of relief. He thought he had seen the trap; that she was going to try to get him away from Wabaska.

"I can do better than that," he offered. "I can send a man from St. Paul; a good safe man who will do just what he is told to do—and keep his mouth shut."

She nodded approvingly. "Do it; and tell your messenger that time is precious and expense doesn't count. This is the first half of your commission. Come a little closer and I'll tell you the second half."

Broffin bent his head and she whispered the remainder of his instructions. When she had finished he looked up and suggested his head approvingly.

"Yes; I see what you mean—and it's none of my business what you mean it for," he answered. "I'll get the evidence, if there is any."

"It must be like the other; in black and white," she stipulated. "And you needn't say 'I'. Look for a red-faced man with stiff mustaches and a big make-believe diamond in his shirt-front, and make him tell you."

Miss Grerson was opening her purse and she passed a yellow-backed banknote to her newest confederate.

"Your retainer," she explained.

Broffin's grin this time was wholly of appreciation.

"You're the right kind—the kind that looks through all the while, Miss Grerson," he told her. Then he did the mainly thing. "I'll go into this, just as you say—what? But it's only fair to warn you that it may turn up some things that'll freeze you. You know that old saying about sleeping dogs?"

Miss Grerson was gathering the reins over the little Morgan's back and her black eyes snapped.

"This is one time when we are going to kick the dogs and make them wake up," she returned. "Good-by, Mr. Broffin."

CHAPTER XXIV.

Gates of Brass.

It was an hour beyond the normal quitting time on the day of ultimatum and counter-threatenings, the small of day force had gone home, and the night squad of deputies had come to relieve the day guard. Graywold closed the spare desk in the manager's room and twisted his chair to face Raymer.

"I may as well go and get some thing to eat," he suggested. "There will be nothing doing tonight."

Raymer began to put his desk in order.

"No, not tonight. The trouble will begin when we try to start up with a new force. Call it a weakness if you like, but I dread it, Kenneth."

Graywold's smile was a mere barring of the teeth. "That's all right, Ned; you do the dreading and I'll do the fighting," he said; adding: "What we've had today has merely whetted my appetite."

The man of peace shook his head dejectedly.

"I can't understand it," he protested. "Up to last night I was calling you a benevolent socialist, and my only fear was that you might some time want to reorganize things and turn the plant into a little section of Utopia. Now you are out-reaching fiered on the other side."

Graywold got up and crushed his soft hat upon his head.

"Only fools and dead folk are denied the privilege of changing their minds," he returned. "Let's go up to the Winnebago and ford."

The dinner to which they sat down a little later was a small feast of silence. Though he had not betrayed it, Graywold was fiercely impatient to get away to Marygrove.

Twice, on his way to her after leaving Raymer, he fanned his face was followed, and twice he stepped behind the nearest shade-tree and tightened his grip upon the thing in his right hand pocket. But both times the rearward sidewalk showed itself empty. Since false alarms may have, for the moment, all the shock of the real, he found that his hands were trembling when he came to untouch the Grerson gate, and it made him vindictively self-conscious. Also, it gave him a momentary glimpse into another and hitherto unmeasured depth in the valley of stumblings. In the passing of the glimpse he was made to realize that it is the coward who kills; and kills because he is a coward.

He had climbed the steps of the broad veranda when he heard his name called softly from the depths of one of the great wicker lounging chairs half hidden in the veranda shadows. In a moment he had placed another of the chairs for himself, dropping into it wearily.

"I saw you at the gate," she said. "The men are still holding out?"

"We're holding out. The plant is closed, and it will stay closed until we can get another force of work men."

"There will be lots of suffering," she ventured.

"It's no use," he said, answering her thought. "There is nothing in me to appeal to."

"There was yesterday, or the day before," she suggested.

"Perhaps. But yesterday was yesterday, and today is today. As I told Raymer a little while ago, I've changed my mind."

"No," she denied, "you only think you have. But you didn't come here to tell me that?"

"No; I came to ask a single question. How is Mr. Galbraith?"

"He is a very sick man,"

"You mean that there is a chance that he may recover?"

"More than a chance, I'm afraid."

"After a moment of silence Graywold said, 'I did my best; you know I did my best.'"

Her answer puzzled him a little. "I could almost find it in my heart to hate you if you hadn't."

Silence again, broken only by the whispering of the summer breeze rustling the leaves of the lawns and the laughter of tiny waterfalls the lake bench. At the end of Graywold got up and strode for his hat.

"I'm going home," he said. "It has been a pretty strenuous day, and there is another one coming. But people go to work in the morning and do their thing. I'll be back tomorrow."
